

STANDARD MODEL

Course information, Lent term 2015

M Wingate, M.Wingate@damtp.cam.ac.uk

1. Course website:

<http://www.damtp.cam.ac.uk/user/wingate/StdM>

There you will find a link to a page containing my lecture notes (see next item), some references, and a few mild amusements.

2. Lecture notes:

I typed up some notes to go with the lectures. These will contain some remarks which I will not make in the lecture, and they will omit other remarks which I will make in the lectures. I am in the process of going through them once more. I will update the ones on the web as I make additions and corrections. The time at which a PDF version was compiled is given at the bottom of page 2 of the notes.

Please let me know about any typos or other problems with the notes. I will also attempt to fill in details on topics which go by too quickly in the lectures, so feedback on the lectures is welcome (see next item).

3. Asking questions:

Feel free to ask questions. During lectures the questions should seek to clarify what I've said or written, otherwise the flow of the lecture is diminished. I do sometimes make minus sign, index, or other typographical errors while writing on the board, so definitely bring these to my attention. For questions of more substance, feel free to approach after lecture or send me an e-mail. I do not have specific office hours, but I'm happy to make an appointment to ensure I'm in at a certain time.

4. Examples classes:

There will be 4 examples sheets. Classes will be approximately fortnightly starting in week 3 or so. The 4th examples class may be held at the start of Easter term. The courses will be taught by Ciaran Hughes (C.Hughes@damtp). He has said you can contact him with questions, but please do not abuse his generosity – he is also busy with PhD research.
